Consolidated Tutorial Report (2015-2016)

Tutorial system is a part of University teaching in which the teacher focuses on regular and small group teaching sessions. It is a personalized learning and has been organized with a view to better the relationship between the teachers and the students. It aims at promoting effective teaching and tries to focus special attention on the students and thus aid in the holistic development of the students as well as the general atmosphere of the college. In our college tutors are assigned their respective classes at the commencement of the academic year itself and each tutor continues with the same students in the next semester also. The same tutor engages the students in the succeeding academic year also; that is the tutor of the first year wards remains their tutor till they reach their final year.

All the tutors have a close rapport with their wards and thereby have a thorough understanding of each student, either through small group interaction or one-to-one communication. The tutors help the slow learners in grasping difficult or complex topics. They also conduct seminars and debates on social issues like seasonal diseases and how to prevent them, importance of personal health and hygiene, the need to promote organic farming, development of healthy habits, steps to initiate green practices and how to perform well in academics. Such interaction helps in the enhancement of independent and critical thinking, instills confidence and builds self reliance in the wards.

The tutors ensure that class PTA meetings are conducted in each semester. The internal examination marks are entered in their tutorial book through which the progress, difficulties faced and other problems, if any, of the student can be studied and remedied. During the meeting, teachers interact with parents and students and measures are discussed to improve their academic output. The teachers ascertain that parents sign their wards' tutorial book. Thus the tutorial system not only benefits the students but also helps to link the teacher and parents.
